- Facilities Committee:
  - Scheduled to meet this Friday with the consultant that worked on the curtain wall window investigation; Betsy Baird.
  - Lisa is awaiting budget information for the meeting.
  - She was given a heads up that the actual cost of the testing itself was significantly lower then what was budgeted.
Fundraising Committee:
- Between the committee’s first meeting and second meeting the library received gifts totaling $35,000 from anonymous donors.
- YDL has now received over $50,500 in donations and $3,000 in pledges for the Superior project.
- The library also applied for a capital improvement grant from the Michigan Council of Arts and Cultural affairs. Friday they announced their grant awards and YDL was awarded $50,000.
- The committee will meet again in November.

Superior Township Planning:
- Still waiting to hear back from the Washtenaw County Road Commission.
- Lisa contacted Dan Whisler regarding the soil borings because she was worried about the cold weather coming on. She was told soil borings are not weather dependent and can happen any time of the year.

REPORT OF THE LIBRARY DIRECTOR
In addition to submitted Director’s report, Director Hoenig relayed the following:
- Michigan Ave. had bed bugs, they no longer have them. There were two incidents when the library was closed. The dogs were brought in and it was confirmed and treated.
- The three open positions were posted. The deadline was Monday. Applications are being reviewed and interviews will be scheduled.
- Bee Roll the owner of Beezy’s is no longer part of daily operation for the café downtown or at the library. Bee is now part owner functioning in an advisory role. She has turned over majority share of her business to what she calls a “board of directors”. Lisa has not yet met with the new management team.
- The special board meeting is scheduled for a week from this evening (10/30/19) at 6:30pm in the community room. krM will be presenting their final report on the space utilization study. They have a lot of interesting ideas based on the public response and staff input.
- Lisa wrote an article about TALK for a journal called Marketing Library Services. It will be the cover article of their upcoming issue. They have agreed to pay the library $275, which will go to the YDL endowment.
- Friday is Halloween Downtown at 5:30pm and Ypsi Glow kicks off at 7pm. Lisa hopes to see everyone there.
- Six staff members and Pat attended the annual MLA conference. Lisa, Head of Youth Services Jodi Krahinke and former YDL librarian Kristel Sexton presented about TALK at the conference.

NEW BUSINESS
A. Review of FY 2020 draft budget, Director Hoenig touched on the following:
   - Lisa met with the Finance committee who said they would recommend this budget.
   - There are a couple of costs that are still being figured out. One being the cost for a bed bug treatment / inspections for downtown.
   - The budget almost puts one and a half million dollars into the fund balance.
   - This year’s budget should come in under budget because there are areas where the library has not been able to spend what was planned to spend.

<td>I have comments! I went to the MLA conference. I found it very enlightening. It was quite helpful to me in terms of just getting a feel for the issues, the culture of library stuff. I brought back a bag of stuff that you all are welcome to look at. I went to a couple of workshops on funding. I did find the one from the Humanities very interesting. I did not know that they funded libraries as they do. I went to a couple on equity and diversity and there is some stuff in here you might want to look at. One on Social work and hiring a social worker in the library. A lot of libraries doing that, some with success some not with great success. There is a book that the man recommended about social work in the library. It included a study that someone had done. The book is called Whole Person Librarianship: A Social Work Approach to Patron Services by Sara Zettervall and Mary Nienow. One is a librarian and the other is a social worker. Also, some stuff on grant writing.</td>

<td>I attended the October 21st event, The Great Michigan Read. WCC, the Bailey library was a host. YDL was also a host and Paula and Mary were there. Dr. Mona Hanna-Attisha spoke. It was really, really moving. I am really, really proud that YDL was a host of that event. I hope a lot of patrons were there.</td>

<tr>
<td>Brian</td>
<td>I have one comment. I am excited about the krM presentation. As I was coming in I enjoy watching the way the alcove is constantly changing. Seeing the way the building is designed for some flexibility. So I am interested in seeing what they come up with some ideas.</td>
</tr>
<td>Lisa</td>
<td>I think you will be impressed with the things that they are suggesting. I asked them to help us to have really kind of logical phases. So there is a phase one and phase two for this building and a phase one and phase two for the Michigan Avenue building. There are price tags. So you can see what you like and see what you don’t like. You can decide if the price tags are more than what you think the results would be worth. We can do what we want with this report. I do think it was a very valuable exercise from a number of angles. One for future planning, for idea generation, connecting with a new architect with different ideas than our past experiences. I think it really engaged our staff and to a lesser degree some of the public. I think the staff feels a little more cohesiveness after seeing all of the buildings as a focus.</td>
